

This project renovated a suite of offices and conference rooms for the headquarters of the largest academic department at MIT.

Although the reception area and main conference room feature oak paneling, the balance of this 5,200-square foot facility provides a straightforward organization of closed and open office spaces.

Completed 2002.